Historical Sketch of Company K, Fourth Infantry

In its efforts to secure a new armory, Company K, of the Fourth Infantry, has the best wishes of the entire National Guard. The Lancaster company is one of the most efficient in the State service and its arguments in favor of new quarters are indisputable.

Irrespective, also, of the claims of the much esteemed company for recognition of its rights, it would be good policy on the part of the State to encourage the sturdy patriotism which has prevailed in the city and county of that name from the earliest times. Lancaster county is known the world over for its agricultural development. Her farmers set the pace for others to follow. The county is wealthy in her soil, but no less so in her patriotism. The city likewise is a veritable beehive of industry, and there is nothing whatever sluggish about her commercial life. The charter of the town antedates the Declaration of Independence, and the community is in every way as solid as the proverbial rock.

While the military spirit in the city and county has not manifested itself as in some other sections, it has been latent rather than dormant. To-day, Lancaster should be one of the very best fields for recruiting in the State. The people are ardent patriots, and during the Civil War provided a number of regiments which served the nation with distinction.

For a long period, Lancaster was without any State Troop organization until the present Company K of Colonel O'Neill's Fourth Infantry was organized for a second call during the Spanish-American War in 1898. The personnel of this organization, from its very beginning, included the very flower of the professional and young business men of the community. In fact, the pick of Lancaster county was enrolled in this unit and it was mustered into the service by Colonel Simon B. Cameron, who still retains an active interest in the command, and who is affectionately regarded as "the father of the company." The older members frequently visit the Colonel and consult him at his home in Marietta and request his advice.

The high standard of efficiency of Company K stands out pre-eminent in the Pennsylvania National Guard. Its officers have been among the best in the State, and during the fifteen years of its existence but two company commanders have ruled the administration of this unit. Captain John F. Groff was the original Captain and was subsequently promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel of the time-honored Fourth. The present Captain, Quintin O. Reitzel, has maintained its high standard, and has also won the complete confidence of his men.

The company is sadly in need of an armory. The present quarters consist of an old dance hall, which is an annex of a beer garden, and outside of the one drill night each week, the men have absolutely no place to assemble, and the Government and State properties are packed in one or two dressing rooms under the stage of the hall. It is earnestly hoped that the Board of Trade and the representative citizens of Lancaster, as they are assisted by such leaders as Congressman William C. Greist and William U. Hensil Esq., will meet with success in the movement to secure for this splendid infantry organization, a fortress home with interior comforts and proper securities and to safeguard the equipment, and thus dignify the company and regiment. Too much praise cannot be given for the magnificent manner in which the men have held together under adverse circumstances, and the present Captain and officers are certainly deserving of the greatest possible consideration and support of the leading citizens, for it must be remembered that the National Guard of Pennsylvania stands for the preservation of law and order, life and property. While Lancaster county has had no industrial or internal disturbances for many years, sudden emergencies could arise almost without notice and then the securities of its citizens would best be protected by the direct representation of the authority of the Government.

Company K was mustered into the service at Lancaster on June 17, 1898, and was assigned to the Eleventh Regiment as Company B, the regiment being commanded at the time by Colonel L. A. Watres, and was one of the six provisional regiments of the Pennsylvania National Guard, the entire division having been mustered into the service of the United States as volunteers in the war with Spain.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JAMES N. LIGHTNER, COMPANY K, FOURTH INFANTRY.

The company, equalled by but few and surpassed by none of the units in the provisional guard, was retained after the provisional regiments were disbanded. Upon the return of the National Guard Volunteers it was assigned to the Fourth Regiment as Company K, and has thus continued. Its officers were and have always been closely identified with the professional and commercial interests of the city of Lancaster, and are splendid types of manhood.

The instruction of the men by the company officers has shown gratifying results at all times. Its organization is well maintained, and notwithstanding the constantly changing personnel, it is a well equipped organization, drilled in the elements of tactics, sanitation and sustenance, and under active conditions it would be a forceful unit that could well take care of itself.

Some of its former enlisted members have obtained rapid promotion and recognition in the National Guard of Pennsylvania. Sergeant W. C. Rehm is the present Captain and Regimental Commissary of the Fourth Regiment, Corporal Samuel R. Linville now commands Company B, Sixth Regiment, with the rank of Captain; Corporal Emmett Gherst is now Battalion Adjutant of the Fourth Regiment, with the rank of First Lieutenant; Sergeant Charles A. Bair, now on the General N. C. Staff; Sergeant Jere M. Leaman, now on the Division N. C. Staff; Sergeant Harry Numbers, assigned to the Fourth Brigade N. C. Staff, were former enlisted men of Company K.

to develop a company that stands among the first in the division. He is an expert rifle and revolver shot and has represented the Fourth Regiment for many years on its rifle team. He has had a very distinguished military career in the National Guard of Pennsylvania.

Captain Reitzel won the Officers' Revolver Match at the State shoot at Mt. Gretna in 1911.

First Lieutenant James M. Lightner is a member of the bar of Lancaster county. He enlisted in Company K, March 23, 1902, and served through the several grades until he reached his present commission. Lieutenant Lightner received his military instruction at State College. He is a good officer and well liked by all who know him, and particularly so with his fellow officers and the men of his company.

SECOND LIEUTENANT GEORGE HOOK, COMPANY K, FOURTH INFANTRY.

The company saw active service in the great industrial disturbances in the coal regions in 1900 and 1902, being one of the first companies to be called out and the last to be returned home.

Its first Captain, John M. Groff, rose to be Lieutenant Colonel of the Fourth Regiment Infantry, and served until July 15th, 1912, when, at his request, he was placed on the retired list. Colonel Groff is the present District Attorney of Lancaster County, and in addition to his official position as public prosecutor, has a very extensive practice in the law courts of Lancaster county.

The present Captain, Quintin O. Reitzel, is the cashier of the United States Internal Revenue Department at Lancaster, Pa. He served on the Military Committee in the House of Representatives while a member of that body, and contributed active work in behalf of the National Guard. He has been an officer in the company since it was mustered, June 17, 1898. Captain Reitzel is a close student of military tactics and a strict disciplinarian, and has worked hard Second Lieutenant George Hook is connected with one of the largest department stores in the city of Lancaster in the capacity of advertising manager. Lieutenant Hook has long been a member of Company K. He is a zealous officer and untiring in his efforts to promote the efficiency of his company.

Captain W. C. Rehm, Regimental Commissary, was a former officer of Company K, and rose from the ranks to his present commission. Captain Rehm is quite prominent among the younger set of attorneys of the Lancaster bar.

The Fourth Regiment Infantry Band, N. G. P., which is located at Lancaster, is regarded as one of the best musical organizations in the State of Pennsylvania. It has been connected with the Fourth Infantry for eleven years, and is well thought of by the officers and enlisted men of the regiment. At the inauguration of Governor Tener, in 1911, the band headed the parade and played for the Inaugural Committee. At Washington, D. C., when the Columbus Monument was dedicated last June, this organization played for the Knights of Columbus Lodges of Lancaster, Harrisburg and York, and received applause all along the line of march down Pennsylvania avenue. The band has also participated in all of the principal celebrations held in Lancaster for years, and already has a number of important engagements booked well in advance.

The organization will be heard at the conclave of the Knights Templar, to be held in York this May, with its full membership of forty musicians, and will also attend the inauguration of President Wilson.

It has been its custom for years to render a concert in one of Lancaster's theatres annually and the citizens of Lancaster deem it a pleasure to have the opportunity of hearing the music on these occasions, and fill the building to its capacity.

Aaron W. Eshleman is the Chief Musician and Director, and M. W. Young Assistant Director and Mr. James Prangley, Jr., Business Manager. The organization is popularly known as Burger's Band, in honor of the late Chris Burger, its organizer and famous musician.

J. Bernard Myers, Esq., one of the prominent attorneys of the Lancaster County Bar, is deeply interested in National Guard matters and a student of military science. Mr. Myers is a son-in-law of Colonel James Duffy, of Marietta. Colonel Duffy's hospitality is well known among the officers and members of the Fourth Infantry.

Mr. Paul Heine, one of the public spirited and patriotic citizens of Lancaster, is deeply interested in the Boy Scout movement, frequently tendering the use of his fine suburban property for their outings. This courtesy is likewise extended to Companies C and K, of the Fourth Infantry. Mr. Heine believes that all juvenile military organizations should be encouraged as a school for the National Guard.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL JOHN F. GROFF,

Formerly Captain of Company K, who is deeply interested in the Lancaster Armory project.

ORGANIZED MILITIA NOTES.

The Division of Militia Affairs, War Department, in its latest bulletin, makes these announcements:

The question having been raised as to what constitutes 75 per cent. of duty for eligibility of the Organized Militia to participate in national competitions, the following is announced as the decision of the War Department:

(a) There must have been 75 per cent. of attendance both at garrison and field instruction.

(b) Twelve months' continuous service immediately preceding the national competition is required for participation therein.

(c) Where encampments, manoeuvers, field exercises, or schools—in fact, any class of military duty—are required by a State, seventy-five per cent. of such duty must have been performed in order to qualify for participation in a competition.

(d) Each class of duty must be considered by itself. There can be no substitution or interchange.

In a number of instances requests have been made, frequently by telegram, for the immediate relief of sergeant-instructors on duty with the Organized Militia. In many of these instances, investigation has developed the fact that these sergeant-instructors have been delinquent in their duties for extended periods, and in some cases have been guilty of misconduct for which they should have been, and had they been with their regiments would have been, promptly court-martialed and punished. Seldom has it been found, however, that the officers of the organizations to which they were attached, who were immediately concerned and were cognizant of their misdeeds, would consent to proceed against the delinquents, although the desire of the War Department to bring them to trial had been communicated to the Adjutant General of the State concerned.

This attitude on the part of the officers, while generous and commendable from a personal point of view, and while thoroughly appreciated by the War Department, represents, nevertheless, but but one side of the question, and the other side is the one which it is desired herein to bring to the attention of those concerned.

The aim of the Government is to send a picked personnel from its enlisted strength to perform the important work designed for the sergeant-instructors. There is much good material for such selection throughout the service in all of its branches, and as a rule it is believed that the results show the care with which the selections are made. However, mistakes will occur in this as in every other transaction, and occasionally weak or even vicious characters may slip into these details, and when this happens it is to the interest not only of the State organizations, but to the Federal Government itself, that the character of such a detail shall be discovered and reported as soon as possible with a view to his replacement by a worthy soldier.

It is urgently desired, therefore, that such cases should be reported immediately upon their development, and the department expresses the hope that the officers concerned, in the future, will not only report such cases but will assist in the prosecution of the offenders when requested to do so.

The publication of the above views of the War Department to commanding officers of organizations is requested.

CARL REESE EABY, ESQ.

Carl Reese Eaby, who is deeply interested in the movement to secure a new armory for Lancaster, is a prominent lawyer of that city. Comrade Eaby is a former member of the original Company B. He is a graduate of the Lancaster High School and of Franklin and Marshall College, and has been active in the Masonic fraternity for more than a score of years. He is a Past Illustrious Potentate of Zembo Temple, Ancient and Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, and is also a Past Exalted Ruler of the Lancaster Lodge of Elks. Comrade Eaby enlisted in Battery C, on April 9, 1894, and re-enlisted on April 9, 1897. He was on the muster-in roll of Company B, Eleventh Infantry, at Lancaster, on June 17, 1898, and was promoted to Sergeant on October 4 of the same year. He later returned to Battery C and remained with that organization for several years.

COURSES FOR ORGANIZED MILITIA.

Scoring.

(d) Such provisions of these regulations as are impracticable for the Organized Militia may be modified by the State authorities, except for the Qualification Course, Regular Army.

Estimating Distance.

(e) Estimating distance will not be required for the Organized Militia, except when firing the Regular Army course, in which case Paragraph 85 will be complied with. State authorities may require commissioned officers to qualify in estimating distance in the Qualification Course, Organized Militia.

SERGEANT JAMES PRANGLEY, JR.,
Business Manager, Fourth Regiment Band.

Practice Season.

(f) The practice season will be determined by the State authorities.

Who Will Fire.

(g) Required to Fire.

1. Infantry, cavalry, engineers of companies and troops.	1. Battalion and squadron staff officers, company and troop officers, inspectors, small arms practice, all enlisted men of companies and troops except cooks. Special Course "A"
2. Coast Artillery Reserves of companies.	2. Company officers, all enlisted men except cooks.

Authorized But Not Required to Fire.

1. All other officers and enlisted men except those of the Medical Department and Chaplains.

2. All officers enumerated in the above table with more than ten years commission or commissioned and enlisted service.

Amount of Fire.

(h) The amount of firing in one day for any individual is not restricted for the Organized Militia in any course.

Qualification.

(i) Qualification will be based on the results obtained in either one of the qualification courses or in the instruction practice, as set forth in the following table:

AARON ESHLEMAN,
Chief Musician, Fourth Regiment Infantry Band.

BURGER'S FOURTH REGIMENT INFANTRY BAND, LANCASTER, PA.

TABLE VII.

Points Required in Qualification.

COURSES:	Expert	Sharpshooter	Marksman	1st Class	2d Class	*Unqualified	Possible	Insignia
1.—Qualification Course Instruction; practice, Org. Mil.				150	130	Below 130	225	None
2.—Qualification Course; record practice, Org. Mil.	210	190	160				250	Bronze
3.—Qualification Course; Regular Army.	253	238	202	177	152		300	Regular Army
4.—Special 1 Course "A;" C. A. Reserves.			150	120	100		200	Bronze

* Unqualified.

All who fire a complete course of instruction practice, and all those who fire the Regular Army Qualification Course and Special Course "A," and, in any course, fail to qualify as second-class men or better.

1. Officers and enlisted men carried on the records of organizations during the target season but not participating in target practice will not be included in the above table of qualification.

2. In case authority is given to fire the Qualification Course, Regular Army, after a grade of qualification has been attained in the Qualification Course, Organized Militia, the higher qualification shall be used as the basis of record, and medals will be issued in each case.

3. If an individual fail to qualify as marksman or higher in firing the Qualification Course, Organized Militia, his grading shall be first-class. In the Regular Army Course and Special "A," the qualification shall be determined by the result of the firing in that course alone.

Holdover Qualifications.

(j) Holdover qualifications for the Organized Militia in the Qualification Courses (Organized Militia and Regular Army) will be limited to expert riflemen. An individual having attained this grade will retain that qualification for three consecutive target years, including the target season in which qualification was made. An individual entitled to holdover qualification as an expert rifleman may be authorized by the State authorities to fire the qualification courses, in which case he forfeits no rights to such holdover qualification. If during such subsequent firing, he again qualifies as an expert rifleman, his holdever privileges will begin from his last qualification.

Insignia.

(k) For the Qualification Course, Organized Militia, bronze badges and pins. For the Qualification Course, Regular Army, insignia similar to those issued to the Regular Army. For Special Course "A," Coast Artillery Reserves, bronze pins, marksmen only, when firing this course.

An individual qualifying as marksman, sharpshooter, or expert rifleman, will wear his badge or pin so long as he retains such a qualification.

Requalification Bars.

(l) No requalification bars are issued for marksmen.

Sharpshooters.

Requalification bars shall be issued at the rate of one bar for each three qualifications (not necessarily consecutive) as sharpshooter. The bar bears the last year of qualification.

Expert Riflemen.

Requalification bars are issued at the rate of one bar for each three qualifications as expert rifleman, holdover qualifications included, provided that when an individual requalifies as expert rifleman during a holdover period, he is entitled to a bar for each three years of actual requalification. The bar bears the last year of qualification.

Combat Practice.

(m) Combat practice may be held by the Organized Militia whenever so directed by the State authorities. When held, it will be conducted in accordance with Part III, Small Arms Firing Manual.

Reports.

(n) A report of target firing shall be forwarded to the Chief, Division of Militia Affairs, as soon after the close of practice season as practicable, but not later than March 31 of the following year.

(o) In each State there will be a company and regimental figure of merit to be calculated by the methods laid down by the War Department, except that all men who have failed to qualify as third classmen or better, or who have not fired or, having fired, have failed to complete the course, shall be rated as unqualified, multiplied by 0 and shall be included in the divisor in the computation of the figure of merit. A proficiency test similar to that prescribed for the Regular Army is authorized at the discretion of the State authorities.

Par. 388. Pistol Practice. Preliminary Drills.

(a) All officers and enlisted men belonging to organizations armed with the revolver or pistol shall be instructed in the care, preservation and use of these arms, following the provisions of Paragraphs 137-148, modified only as existing circumstances demand, in any case, in the discretion of the State authorities.

(b) The following course in Pistol Range Practice is prescribed for officers and men armed with the Colt's Revolver Cal. 38, or the Smith & Wesson, Cal. 38, as issued by the Ordnance Department:

TABLE VIII.

	INSTRUCTION PRACTICE.						RECORD PRACTICE.

NOTES

Former Major William K. Reifsnyder, Eighteenth Infantry, has recently re-entered the Guard as Captain, Company D. This company, for many years, was commanded by Major Bertram L. Succop and was regarded as one of the leading companies in the State, the drill attendance averaging 90 per cent. for many years. Colonel Bigger has secured a valuable acquisition in Captain Reifsnyder, and without doubt Company D will be heard from in the near future.

DIVISION COMMISSARY SERGEANT JERE M. LEAMAN,
A well-known non-commissioned staff officer who is untiring in his devotion to the State service, formerly a member of Company K.

Captain Charles C. McLain, Company F, Tenth Infantry, located at Indiana, is the only remaining active Company Commander of the former Fifth Infantry.

By a coincidence, the three Colonels who will head the Fourth, Tenth and First Regiments, which will represent the State at the inauguration of President Wilson, are all Democrats. Partisanship entered in no way into the selection of the three regiments, and it is an amusing turn of the wheel of Fate that was responsible for the choice of three followers of the school of Jefferson and Jackson to uphold the dignity of Pennsylvania at the advent of a new Democratic President.

The Journal is in receipt of a communication asking for information as to the attitude of the Philadelphia police authorities regarding the use by the Organized Militia of music on Sundays. The police have prevented civil bodies from having bands for their parades and exercises on this day. It is only natural to infer that the municipal regulations would not apply to National or State troops, acting under orders, as the military supersedes all local authority.

Brigadier General Clement, who will have command of the Provisional Brigade at the inauguration of President Wilson, has rented a private residence at Washington as headquarters for himself and staff. The quarters are centrally located and are in close proximity to the location of the troops. The headquarters thus established should prove far more agreeable than if located in a hotel, with all of the hustle and bustle of an inauguration.

Colonel Hugh S. Taylor, formerly of the Fifth Infantry, is prominently mentioned for Postmaster of Bellefonte, under the new Democratic administration. He has long been an active Democrat and was an ardent Wilson man in the last campaign.

Captain O'Brien, formerly Inspector of Small Arms Practice, Sixth Infantry, has removed from Philadelphia to Mifflintown, and it is generally believed that he will associate himself with the Tenth Regiment Rifle Team.

The State Fencibles are planning to celebrate the centennial of that organization in May and a gala program is being arranged. It is expected that the thirteen original States of the Union will be represented by their veteran military companies, which visited Philadelphia during the exhibition of 1876 and were known at that time as the Centennial Legion. Majors Brazer and Furth are untiring in their efforts to insure the success of the celebration.
